

COVID-19 Policy

Risk Management Services (Chiltern) Ltd are following Government advice in how to effectively manage what is arguably one of the greatest public health challenges of our time.

We are listening to advice and following it where at all possible to ensure our staff remain safe and that our services can continue without additional compromise to the health and wellbeing of others.

Close communication is being held with all customers to understand their needs and develop methods of working that enable us to adopt any variations that are relevant to the ever-changing situation.

Without showing contempt to the virus and challenges that the nation faces we are aiming to adopt a "business as usual" approach using technology, home working methods and mobile communications.

Furthermore, we are adopting basic measures in line with Government advice to limit the face to face interaction between employees and where this does occur, we are providing guidance on what actions to take to reduce and suppress the possibility of contracting or spreading COVID-19.

We will continue to monitor this fast-moving situation and react to Government advice as it changes updating employees and customers where this may affect them.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Graham Tilly".

Graham Tilly
Managing Director